The JFK Cut-N-Paste Assassination: Putting It Back Together Denise Hazelwood

In October, 2015, declassified CIA documents revealed that John McCone (head of the CIA from November, 1961 to April, 1965) participated in a “benign cover-up” intended to keep the Warren Commission focused on “what the Agency believed at the time was the ‘best truth’—that Lee Harvey Oswald, for as yet undetermined motives, had acted alone in killing John Kennedy.” The JFK Cut-N-Paste Assassination offers an explanation for that “benign cover-up,” one which accounts for all the “conspiracy” evidence without reaching a conspiracy-to-murder conclusion. The cover-up was of Secret Service and Dallas police SNAFUs rather than a government-sponsored conspiracy to murder. Starting with the discovery of a single out-of-place word supporting that cover-up, the author embarked on a journey into the assassination that would lead her through new discoveries of film alteration, photographic compositing, and overlooked evidence. Synthesizing her own observations with work done by other researchers, the author realized that what really happened in Dealey Plaza was unlike anything that researchers had yet theorized. The author supports the Donahue/Menninger “Mortal Error” theory of the explosive head shot, and offers a startling new theory of the first shot to explain the “Conspiracy” evidence, the cover-up, and the Warren Commission’s predilection for laying the blame solely at Oswald’s feet. This revised edition offers new insights into the acoustical evidence as well as other new observations and “finds” supporting the author’s “early shot cover-up” thesis. WARNING: Contains autopsy photos and other images.
