Stanford Law Review: Volume 63, Issue 3 - March 2011 Stanford Law Review

A leading law journal adds a digital edition to its worldwide distribution, featuring quality ebook formatting and active links. This current issue of the Stanford Law Review contains studies of law, economics, and social policy by recognized scholars on such diverse topics as "preglimony," derivatives markets in a fiscal crisis, corporate reform in Brazil, land use and zoning under contract theory, and a student Note on college endowments at elite schools during a time of economic downturn.

Contents for this issue:

"Regulatory Dualism as a Development Strategy: Corporate Reform in Brazil, the United States, and the European Union"

by Ronald J. Gilson, Henry Hansmann and Mariana Pargendler

"The Derivatives Market's Payment Priorities as Financial Crisis Accelerator"

by Mark J. Roe

"The Contract Transformation in Land Use Regulation"

by Daniel P. Selmi

"Preglimony"

by Shari Motro

Note, "Scarcity Amidst Wealth: The Law, Finance, and Culture of Elite University Endowments in Financial Crisis"

by Peter Conti-Brown

The Stanford Law Review was organized in 1948. Each year the Law Review publishes one volume, which appears in six separate issues between December and July. Each issue contains material written by student members of the Law Review and outside contributors, such as law professors, judges, and practicing lawyers. The journal is edited by students at Stanford Law School.

In the new ebook edition, all the footnotes, graphs, and tables of contents (including those for individual articles) are fully linked, properly scalable, and functional; the original note numbering is retained. Also, the URLs in notes are active; and the issue is properly formatted for ereaders. Two previous, recent issues from the 2010-2011 academic year (Volume 63) are also available as ebooks.
